

ST. PATRICK'S HOUSE

"Unity is strength... when there is teamwork and collaboration, wonderful things can be achieved."

— Mattie J. T. Stepanek

It is a matter of great pride and honour for me to present the Annual Report of St. Patrick's House for the academic session 2025–26. This year was not defined merely by competitions or points, but by commitment, discipline, teamwork, and the collective determination to strive for excellence.

Under the able guidance of our House Master, Mr. Alan Sebastian Saju, and the constant encouragement of our Assistant House Moderator, Mrs. Usha Robinson, the House functioned with purpose, discipline, and a strong sense of unity. Their invaluable support inspired every member of the House to perform to the best of their ability while upholding the ideals of responsibility, perseverance, and sportsmanship.

Throughout the academic year, St. Patrick's House participated enthusiastically in every Inter-house sporting and cultural event. Whether on the sports field or on the stage, our students displayed dedication, discipline, and unwavering team spirit. Regular practice sessions, sincere commitment, and a balanced approach towards academics and co-curricular activities enabled the House to perform with confidence and determination.

The House demonstrated commendable coordination during the Pyramid Formation, March Past, and Mass Drill, where discipline, precision, and teamwork were clearly evident. Our Tug-of-War team competed with remarkable courage and resilience, progressing to the later stages of the competition while displaying exemplary sportsmanship. Every event strengthened the bonds among House members and reinforced the importance of unity and collective effort.

As House Captain, I was ably supported by our Vice-Captain, Mohd. Moaaz Ali, and C-Squad Leader, Mrinank Tiwari, whose dedication and leadership played an important role in organising practices, motivating participants, and maintaining discipline. I would also like to acknowledge the contribution of Shivesh, whose initiative and willingness to shoulder responsibilities greatly supported the smooth conduct of House activities.

Our sincere gratitude is extended to all the teachers of St. Patrick's House, whose encouragement, supervision, and constant guidance inspired us to give our very best throughout the year. Their faith in our abilities strengthened our confidence and motivated us to persevere despite every challenge.

At the conclusion of the year's competitions, St. Patrick's House secured the Fourth position in the Cock House Championship. Although the final standings did not favour us, the true success of the House lay in the remarkable growth we witnessed in discipline, leadership, teamwork, and resilience. Every challenge became an opportunity to learn, and every experience strengthened our resolve to achieve greater heights in the years ahead.

As I conclude my tenure as House Captain, I look back with immense pride and gratitude. This year has taught us that success is measured not merely by trophies or rankings but by the strength of our character, the unity of our team, and the determination with which we face every challenge.

"We may stand fourth on the scoreboard today, but we stand first in unity, effort, and spirit, because St. Patrick's House measures success not by rank alone, but by how strongly we rise together."
